Dystopian Literature Essential Questions

In a perfect world, is fair equal?

Is it worth it to stand up for what you believe in, even if the world is against you?

Can small actions make a big difference?

Is the disappearance of the individual a bad thing?

Thinking about our current society and culture, what aspects of dystopia or utopia do we have right now?

When is it best to conform to the wishes or rules of others?

How important is it for people to have choice?

Is Utopia attainable? At what cost?

Are rules made to be followed, or are rules made to be broken?